This workshop is ideal for both parents and teachers of boys. Dr. Jerry Shapiro will explore new issues for boys and offer a host of solutions to current problems. The core of the presentation is to develop more effective ways to reach our sons, while still honoring our daughter's experiences. He will focus on what we can do to counteract the socially-induced deficits as well as teach specific skills that work for boys. Topics will include:

- how to better talk so boys will listen
- how to provide more boy-centered learning experiences
- how to avoid gender stereotyping
- how boys learn best
