Comments from college students who attended sessions of Financial Peace University in last summer:

"I feel so lucky to have participated in Financial Peace University as a college student and young adult. I am only just starting to accumulate some money of my own, and Dave Ramsey's program has clearly identified all the common money mistakes that I can now avoid. I have an entirely new outlook on spending and saving, and feel optimistic about how to make my money work for me. His DVDs are not simply dry instructional talks, but entertaining and witty lessons in financial planning. I am so glad I took this class!" College Student — member of LAUMC

"As a dirt poor college student and former shopaholic, money just seemed to slip through my fingers faster than you could say Coco Chanel. I thought I understood budgeting and planning, but I never had an interest in saving up money, because what's the point of having money hidden away in a bank when you could be walking around in those new Dolce Vita boots? This is where Financial Peace University comes in. My mom dragged me with her to the first class, and from that day forward my entire view of financial managing was changed. For the first time, I understood that my money should work for me, not the other way around. Now, I have a very comfortable savings cushion, haven't overdrawn my account since I took the class, and am saving up very successfully for a semester abroad in London. I owe all my current financial smarts and peace of mind to Financial Peace University." College Student — member of LAUMC

"Financial Peace University was an enormous help to me. This is just plain old good advice. The simplified budgets taught me a brand new way to look at my financial responsibilities as a young adult. Dave Ramsey shares information that you probably haven't heard (or are likely to) elsewhere. Best of all, the principles I learned in this class taught me that even if I don't have a lot of money, I don't have to be broke." College Student — friend of LAUMC
